OKA frequently uses Relationship Awareness theory - and the associated Strength Deployment Inventory (SDI) - to explore leadership dynamics and conflict management with our consulting client teams. Here are examples of how different leadership styles can be seen through using the SDI – presented in the form of output generated by some of our client groups.

Strength Deployment Inventory (SDI) Exercises - Leadership Perspectives

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Color</th>
<th>What We Like When Being Led</th>
<th>What We Dislike When Being Led</th>
<th>How to Influence Us</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Blue: Altruistic-Nurturing</td>
<td>• Clear direction • Be Fair • Respect for what we think • Positive feedback/reinforcement • Appreciation, value our opinion • Good listener/willing to take suggestions</td>
<td>• Cold and impersonal • Being told what to do • Disorganization/reactiveness (last minute) • Public reprimand • Forceful, close minded opinions • Lack of respect</td>
<td>• “Why?” - show me value to all stakeholders • Show me how I make a difference • Personal appeal • Reference prior successes • Appreciate me</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Red: Assertive-Directing</td>
<td>• Direct, to the point • Sure footed • Knowledgeable/competent leader</td>
<td>• Indirect, not to the point, unknowledgeable/incompetent leader</td>
<td>• Prove your knowledge/competency • Don’t B.S. sugar-coat, exaggerate • Withstand any challenges, questions • Concise directions, clear expectations • Link us to necessary resources • Rinse and repeat</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Green: Analytic-Autonomizing</td>
<td>• Fairness/equity • Independence/autonomy • Enough resources to get job done • Sufficient information. • Be serious when we are talking about important things • We like a plan, rationale, clear direction and path, and guidelines/framework</td>
<td>• Being micromanaged • Erratic decisions • Being told to do things I perceive as unfair or impractical • Disorganization • Excessive “group think”</td>
<td>• Show me the underlying thinking/justification • Show practical outcome • Give me background information that gives a reason for the plan • Give constructive feedback • Show respect for team players</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hub: Flexible-Cohering</td>
<td>• Clear direction/expectations • Individual tasks/goals • Strong, competent leader-accessible • Constructive feedback • Feeling the impact your task has</td>
<td>• Micromanager • Unclear direction with no explanation • No clear goal • Leader disconnected from team • Weak leader, no control over</td>
<td>• Meaningful work/project • Show appreciation • Hold us accountable too • Be flexible • Respect our ideas/input • Convey the impact and value-added</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Otto Kroeger Associates (OKA) - Phone: 703-591-6284 - jtucker@typetalk.com
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Color</th>
<th>What We Like When Being Led</th>
<th>What We Dislike When Being Led</th>
<th>How to Influence Us</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Red-Blue: Assertive-Nurturing | • Decisiveness
• Group consensus
• Clear communication
• Like to be challenged
• Clear objectives/goals (big picture)
• Obtain team buy-in
• Be a resource to me  | • Micro manager
• Skip level management
• Lack of delegation
• Poor communication
• Not being recognized  | • Sell me on the why/goal of the project
• Have a good energy!!
• Evaluate the outcome, not how I got there.
• Give me clarity and recognition  |
| Motivated by taking action to help people | • Independence to complete the goal
• Logical, rational direction—clear value
• Connection to the big picture-clear value
• Positive energy, reasonable deadline/challenge
• Clarity and consistency  | • No logic underlying the directive micro-manage
• Constant check-in
• Detachment from team
• Extremism
• Ambiguity  | • Convince me there is value to this—what you’re asking me to do is important (to me or company)
• Excite me about this—show enthusiasm
• Give me opportunity for growth
• Money and recognition  |
| Red-Green: Analytic-Assertive | • Clear expectations realistic
• Freedom to act-work independently
• Treated as equal
• Support is available
• Development opportunity
• Clarity
• Ask for my opinion and input  | • Micro managed
• Repetition
• Dictatorial
• No big picture
• Changing goals/direction
• Being patronized
• “Do this” with no explanation
• Not knowing what to expect  | • Enthuse/excite
• Consult me/engage
• Individual consultation
• Explain why I’m wrong redirect
• Give clear expectations
• Let us know why
• Once goal is known, let me figure out the method  |
| Motivated by using well-thought out strategies to meet goals | • Independent to complete the goal
• Logical, rational direction—clear value
• Connection to the big picture-clear value
• Positive energy, reasonable deadline/challenge
• Clarity and consistency  | • Independent to complete the goal
• Logical, rational direction—clear value
• Connection to the big picture-clear value
• Positive energy, reasonable deadline/challenge
• Clarity and consistency  | • Independent to complete the goal
• Logical, rational direction—clear value
• Connection to the big picture-clear value
• Positive energy, reasonable deadline/challenge
• Clarity and consistency  |
Strength Deployment Inventory (SDI) Exercises - Conflict Triggers and Stages

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Color</th>
<th>What Triggers Conflict In Us?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Blue: Altruistic-Nurturing | • Rude comments/people, Arrogance
• Lack of recognition, common courtesy
• Confrontation, someone else’s conflict
• Lack of communication, information and resources
• Close mindedness
• Mad or disappointed people in me
• Misunderstandings |
| Red: Assertive-Directing  | • Illogical behavior or thinking
• Incompetence (if you’re also stubborn, it’s automatically stage 3)
• Betrayal or 2 faced - hidden agendas
• Repeating mistakes
• Emotional people or SLACKERS
• Being deceived, screwed, B.S.’d, lied to, false promise
• Jumping command – perception of resistance
• Lack of effort, direction and enthusiasm |
| Green: Analytic-Autonomizing | • Rude or disrespectful behavior
• Underestimating
• No trust (in my ability)
• Getting my name wrong
• Bad tone
• Ignoring my wants/needs
• Miscommunication
• Dismissive
• Harping on the same thing over and over
• Being irrational |
| Hub: Flexible-Cohering    | • Communication barriers
• Unequal treatment - Slackers
• Lack of direction and consistency
• People who won’t admit wrongs
• Lack of R-E-S-P-E-C-T
• Stubborn/inflexible people
• Goals that are unprioritized
• Not being acknowledged or recognized. |
| Red-Green                | • Ambiguity
• Lack of resources
• Unrealistic expectations
• Differing work styles
• Personality conflicts. |
| Blue-Red                 | • Lack of acknowledgement and recognition
• Unclear delegation
• Favoritism, lopsided delegation
• No cooperation
• Lack of respect
• Indecision
• Poor leadership
• Hidden agendas
• Cover-ups – not admitting when you make a mistake |
| Blue-Green               | • Not considering people’s feelings and needs
• Not thinking through the implications on staff
• Not letting me work on my own – too much intervention
• When you are so focused on results that you don’t think about steps needed or how people feel |
Strength Deployment Inventory (SDI) Workshop Exercise Output

The SDI is unique in its ability to describe different approaches to conflict, as it reveals preferred styles both when things are going well, and in different stages of conflict. Here’s how groups from the different Motivational Values Systems captured by the SDI express their experience of the first two conflict stages.

IN STAGE 1 CONFLICT:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Color</th>
<th>What We Do….</th>
<th>How We Feel…</th>
<th>How We Want To Be Approached….</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Blue: Altruistic-Nurturing | • Ask – Is it worth the conflict?
• Not worth arguing – Pick my battles
• Step back and try to make things better
• Ask questions to gain understanding | • Aggravated
• Chilled but brewing
• Frustrated
• Misunderstood and upset
• Calmer when we put things in perspective | • Stay away
• Give me space and then come back
• “Air out”
• Leave me alone
• If you approach, do so calmly with intelligent dialogue |
| Red: Assertive-Directing | • Want to win and take control of the situation
• Raise my voice
• Become irritable
• Dissect and counter arguments
• Emotionally disassemble the antagonist | • Energized and challenged
• Defensive and I irritated
• Motivated to prove yourself
• Prepare and focused to fully engage | • Listen! Or fully engage.
• Bring your “A” Game
• Apologetic – if you know you were wrong |
| Green: Analytic-Autonomizing | • Think first “did I do something?”
• Calm and logical on surface
• Get and then analyze facts
• Get my ducks in a row
• Alert necessary people; get advice from experts
• Resolve with logic and reason | • Internally tense
• Psychological thunderstorm
• Mind consumed by conflict
• Uncomfortable
• Calm, collected, validated when I have my facts – focused on resolving conflict | • Open forum for discussion
• One-on-one
• Approach us without condescension and as a listener – converse with us logically and calmly
• Without emotion
• Fix problem – don’t focus on blame
• Come with the facts |
Strength Deployment Inventory (SDI)
Workshop Exercise Output

STAGE 2 CONFLICT:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Color</th>
<th>What We Do….</th>
<th>How We Feel….</th>
<th>How We Want To Be Approached….</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Blue: Altruistic-Nurturing | • From Red: Calm Down, Listen (from Red Stage)
  • From Green: Give up, decides not worth it
  • From Red: Apologize for previous behavior
  • From Red: Verbally express worst-case scenarios in attempt to resolve | • From Green & Red: Apathetic
  • From Green: Aloof
  • From Red & Green: Drained
  • From Red: Frustrated
  • From Red: Embarrassed | • From Green: Don’t
  • From Red: Calmly
  • From Red: With emotion |
| Red: Assertive-Directing | • Light them up with email or conversation
  • March over to their cube
  • Unload on them
  • Become very assertive | • Heart rate is up
  • Ready to throw down
  • Excited
  • Confident and righteous
  • I want to WIN | • Approach with caution!
  • Want an apology from you
  • Given an opportunity to fight it out |
| Green: Analytic-Autonomizing | • Collect data, analyze
  • Withdraw to analyze
  • “am I wrong? Why?”
  • Separate myself from situation | • “What could I have done differently?”
  • Agitated, frustrated
  • Feel like a lawyer setting up a case | • Calm, rationally
  • Maybe no approach at all |

What Are the Benefits of Conflict?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>BLUE</th>
<th>RED</th>
<th>GREEN</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Learn about others and yourself</td>
<td>Stronger relationship</td>
<td>Lessons learned for next time</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Get more adept at managing other people</td>
<td>Better understanding of opposition</td>
<td>A better process and more data for future</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Increased empathy for others perspectives</td>
<td>Problem resolved</td>
<td>Opportunity for improvements</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Resolve problems</td>
<td>Savor the victory</td>
<td>“I love you, you love me, we’re just one happy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Helps support an open environment</td>
<td>Sever unnecessary ties</td>
<td>company”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You learn who you can count on</td>
<td>Confidence for next conflict</td>
<td>A decision has been made</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Otto Kroeger Associates (OKA) - Phone: 703-591-6284 - jtucker@typetalk.com
Borrowing Strengths: When Are the Different Value Systems Most Needed?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Color</th>
<th>When are the values systems most needed/appropriate?</th>
<th>How would we demonstrate that we are using this values system?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Blue: Altruistic-Nurturing | • When something goes wrong – someone has made a mistake.
  • When counseling or mentoring an employee.
  • When a personal issue arises.
  • When building relationships with clients.
  • With new employees
  • When wanting to learn what motivates someone
  • During times of change to build trust | • Express interest in a person’s life outside of work
  • Give people face time, and spend much of it really listening to the other person.
  • Give positive feedback to someone – acknowledge their contribution.
  • Remembering and acting on what’s important to an individual.
  • Be sincere – and kind. |
| Red: Assertive-Directing | • In times of crisis/emergency
  • When a decision or results are needed quickly
  • When no one is taking the lead to move things forward
  • When risk-taking is needed or appropriate
  • When the facts are unknown or unknowable, and you need to go with your gut.
  • When you are the person who is ultimately accountable for an outcome.
  • When things are getting out of hand | • Take charge in a visible way
  • Make the decision, tell people about it, then move on
  • Don’t look for input
  • Take the risk
  • Express confidence and calm during a crisis
  • Be clear – You are HIRED/FIRED. |
| Green: Analytic-Autonomizing | • When a decision is going to have a significant impact
  • To better describe the current situation before making a change
  • When looking at new uncharted territory when there are lots of options/paths
  • When consequences of action or inaction are not clear | • Show the specific details through visual aids and documentation or process.
  • Use facts to make your case.
  • Prepare for formal presentations of facts – focusing on objective content.
  • Take the time to evaluate the pros and cons. |
| Hub: Flexible-Cohering | • When everyone’s buy-in is important
  • When multiple perspectives are needed
  • When deciding on actions that will impact the whole, or needs to have everyone’s support to be successful. | • When opposite opinions arise, look for common ground, or restate the both positions in a more complementary way.
  • Allow everyone else to give their opinion first.
  • Indicate through body language that you understand the other’s perspective (don’t cross arms, nod and smile, active listening). |

Otto Kroeger Associates (OKA) - Phone: 703-591-6284 - jtucker@typetalk.com